DOZEN INJURED, MOTORMAN WILL DIE

Head-on Collision of Trolley Cars Nead Attleboro, Mass., This Morning, Due to Misunderstanding

Signal. Attleboro, Masa, June 24,-A dozen passengers were injured and one motorman was probably fatally hurt in a head-on collision this morning between two trolley cars on the Attleboro and Plainville line of the Rhode Island company. The accident occurred shortly before eight o'clock, as the result of misunderstood signals. Both restores misunderstood signals. Both motormen stuck to their platforms, and John Hard-ing was buried under the wreckage and taken out apparently dying. Many of those caught under the wreckage could not be released until a car arrived with jacks to pry up the derailed cars.
